

There has been much discussion about the need for a new hospital. First and foremost, it is obvious that my family will not be paying for the new hospital through taxes. My family will however, help pay for the hospital through its use. My family has utilized the current hospital by using outpatient services, overnight stays, and the emergency room on several occasions, and we found the current facility adequate. But when it comes to health care and our children, adequate is not good enough. When something is adequate it remains adequate for only a short time, after that you need to use the word obsolete. We want our three children to grow up in Ord, Nebraska and we want a health care facility that can provide the services our whole family will need far into the future.

We are voting yes for a new hospital because we want what is best for our family.
